COMPUTER SCIENCE CAREERS AT TODAY'S FBI

As a Computer Science professional with the FBI you will support the FBI's national security, intelligence and law enforcement missions.

Primary Duties of Computer Scientists in FBI Field Offices:

Computer Scientist will be required to perform some, or all of the following duties, depending on the specific requirements of the individual assignment:
· Computer system and network procurement, installation, administration and security
· Development and implementation of existing and custom Cyber tools and methods for use in the identification, preservation and analysis of digital evidence
· Provide technical assistance in conducting interviews, searches and other investigative activity
· Provide courtroom testimony
· Conduct liaison and outreach
· Draft documents related to technical and other professional matters
· Remain current with new advances in cyber and technology topics and provide guidance on such matters
· Obtain and provide technical and other professional training

Mandatory Qualifications
· Applicant must be a United States Citizen
· Applicant must be able to obtain a Top Secret/SCI Security Clearance
· Applicant must have a bachelor's degree in Computer Science or bachelor's degree with 30 semester hours in a combination of mathematics, statistics, and computer science, (15 of the 30 semester hours must have been in any combination of statistics and mathematics that included differential and integral calculus). Courses designed to provide an introduction to computer science techniques and methodologies are acceptable; course in teaching elementary, business, or shop mathematics are not acceptable.

Application
Applicants should clearly state on their application/resume their experience in:
· Computer forensics/Investigations
· Computer Security
· Internetworking (firewalls, gateways, routers, hubs, WANS, etc.)
· Computer networking administration
· Computer Programming
· Computer network architecture/design
· Computer technical support
· Operating system administration
· Other high tech computer experience

View now and apply www.fbijobs.gov/cs

Benefits
The FBI offers competitive salaries and a comprehensive benefits package which may include paid vacation, holiday and sick leave, life and health insurance, student loan repayment, and tuition reimbursement. Computer Scientists have promotional potential and access to advance cyber training.

All FBI employees must undergo an FBI Background Investigation and receive an FBI Top Secret Security Clearance. The FBI is an equal opportunity employer and supports workforce diversity and inclusion.